

As CEO of a company that works with independent ISPs to provide high-speed Internet access to hotels, the proposal to deregulate broadband Internet access would materially hurt our business by limiting the availability to independent ISPs providing DSL service.